

Byram Hills School District Lifelong Learner Standards

Collaborative Learner

- A student will be a respectful member of the group.
- A student will be a "team player".
- A student will be an active participant of a group.

Student as Decision Maker

- A student, having demonstrated mastery of content performance standards and employing higher order thinking skills, will be able to locate, retrieve, and use information on his/her own.
- A student will make informed decisions when presented with choices or problems in academics, behavior, health, career and family.
- A student will demonstrate the ability to successfully complete long and short term projects individually and in group settings.

Student as Community Contributor

- A student will contribute to the elementary, middle or high school community.
- A student will contribute to the community at large.

Student as Connection Maker

- In a teacher-structured environment with guidance, students will:
  - make predictions
  - make observations
  - compare information and note similarities, i.e., timelines, etc.
- In order to further process the above information, students will:
  - make analogies
  - synthesize information
  - draw conclusions
  - integrate information
- As an end result, students will:
  - demonstrate their success as connection makers through completion of an interdisciplinary project.

Student as Quality Producer

- Students will demonstrate their progress through products that are multifaceted.
- Students will acknowledge when they don't understand something and will seek that understanding; they will become self advocates regarding their own learning process.
- Students will express enthusiasm for learning.